Sierra Monitor Distributes Spectrex Optical Flame Detector Products

March 10, 2006 – Sierra Monitor Corporation is proud to add the Spectrex Optical Flame Detector products to our product line. Sierra Monitor has been a leader in combustible and toxic gas detection systems for over 25 years. Spectrex is a world leader in a wide range of optical flame detectors used in the same industries and applications as the Sierra Monitor gas detectors. This new partnership provides Sierra Monitor customers and representatives with an exciting, proven and accepted line of flame detectors.

Spectrex SharpEye Fire and Flame Detectors are leading edge in optical flame detection technology. Its unique technologies include UV, UV/IR and IR3 flame detection technologies. Specialty applications include fast response detectors used in military systems, and the CCTV model that not only detects the flame, but can transmit a video of the flame to a central control system.

About Sierra Monitor Corporation

Sierra Monitor Corporation manufactures and integrates hazardous gas monitoring systems for industrial safety applications. With more than 25 years experience and over 14,000 installations of fixed gas monitoring systems Sierra Monitor is a technology leader in the industry. Sierra Monitor's accomplishments include the first digital bi-directional multi-drop communication bus between sensors and controller, the first serial Modbus communication output for plant-wide systems, the first interface to third party legacy sensors and devices and the first cost-effective web-based graphical system for monitoring plant-wide hazardous gas conditions.
